

Arrow Energy Project Update

SEPTEMBER 2026

News from Arrow

Together with local communities, we continue to make strong progress on our multi-phase Surat Gas Project (SGP).

With activities well underway in the Miles and Dalby regions, we will soon commence SGP Central, our third development area south of Chinchilla.

To mark this next phase, we recently hosted a community breakfast at the Chinchilla RSL with local landholders and stakeholders, reinforcing the important role they play in shaping and supporting the project.

Surat Gas Project North hits another milestone

The first stage of our Surat Gas Project North near Miles has reached the half-way mark, with more than 125 of 250 gas wells constructed to date.

Construction is also now complete on one of the key assets in the northern development – a 27-kilometre infrastructure corridor which is scheduled to be brought online soon.

The multi-purpose corridor, which will enable the delivery of more gas to market, houses gas and water pipelines and fibre optic cables.

Kickstarting local careers

Our Surat Gas Project is delivering more than essential energy – it's helping young people across the Darling Downs kick-start their careers.

Dozens of local apprentices and trainees are working on our project across a range of trades, including electricians, heavy diesel mechanics and auto electricians.

It's an opportunity to gain hands-on experience on a large-scale natural gas project, while working close to home.

Investing in our communities

Arrow invests more than $1.5 million annually to support stronger, healthier, and more sustainable communities in our project areas.

From our long-standing social investment partnerships delivering long-term outcomes to the grassroots organisations that make an everyday difference, we are focussed on responding to local needs now and into the future.

Supporting locals in need

Dalby Circles of Care provides approximately 7,500 meals each year to Dalby locals facing difficult circumstances.

A group of Arrow team members recently helped by supplying and serving hot meals to visitors during a weekly meal service.

It's one small way we give back to communities hosting our Surat Gas Project.

Inspiring the next generation

Our experts love sharing their knowledge with the next generation.

We were delighted to take part in a Queensland Minerals and Energy Academy (QMEA) session at Miles State School recently.

The workshop, delivered through Arrow's partnership with the QMEA, helped students discover how science and technology shape the energy industry.

Current activities

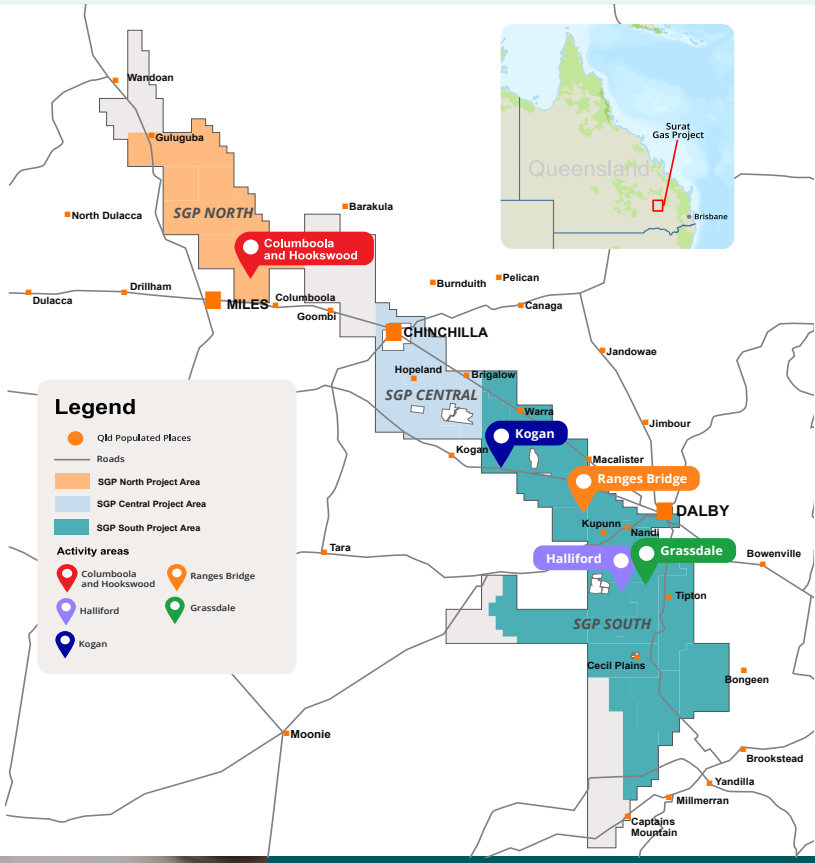

Arrow continues to carry out activities in the Miles and Dalby regions as part of our Surat Gas Project, with early prep work commencing in an area south of Chinchilla in mid-September.

Activities include:

- Installation of new gas and water pipelines
- Construction of gas wells on properties where agreements are in place with landholders
- Construction of gas production facilities and infrastructure
- Construction of property turnouts and local road upgrades to support safe transport and access

We're carefully managing heavy vehicle movements to reduce impacts on local roads and communities. However, residents and road users may notice increased traffic in and around these activity zones.
